According to the story of Christ in Revelation (1:14), the devil sought the Holy Spirit. He was given an angel and said: "Come, let me see whether your love makes you willing to be my slave" (Revelation 1:15). The devil became the slave of the Holy Spirit. The devil was known and worshipped as an angel of light. One day, the Lord Jesus Christ came to Jerusalem to deliver his people from the Roman Empire. The Lord Jesus told his disciples to be quick and to say no evil, just as they had in the old testament (2.1.8–2.1.15, 2 Cor. 13:26–26). The Lord Jesus said: "All these things I say unto you, that if they say to you, If ye be perfect, and if ye keep my word, ye shall be perfect. But if ye be not perfect, and shall not keep my sayings then ye shall be as though I had said to you; Fear the Lord and serve him whom I have sent" (Matt. 15:15–22). Satan was deceived and cast out, for Satan was the image of Jesus (Lk. 19:14–22).. The Bible states that Satan is the creator of this world, for "all things and all men" have been created by the Devil (Isaiah 51:19). The Antichrist is said to be the one who created all this,... "We've shown that, using very simple methods, nanoscale graphene can be synthesized from a single-walled sheet of polydimethylsiloxane," explained Raghu Singh, an associate professor of chemistry and director of the institute's Center for Biomolecular Electrochemistry.
